4.1. The purpose of the data protection information is to define the data protection and data management principles applied by the Service Provider (hereinafter: Data Controller) and the data protection and data management policy of the Data Controller, which the Data Controller recognizes as binding on itself. When developing these rules, the Data Controller took particular account of the European Union Data Protection Regulation, Regulation (EU) No. 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council, and the resolutions of "Working Group 29", as well as the related national regulations of the application, and its its laws, regulations and recommendations aimed at legal harmonization.

The purpose of this information is that in all areas of the services provided by the Data Controller, for all natural persons - regardless of their nationality or place of residence - the Data Subjects' rights to their personal data are ensured, and their basic freedoms, especially their right to privacy, are respected when their personal data is stored electronically, during mechanical and manual data processing (data protection).

The Data Controller is committed to protecting the personal data of its customers and partners, treats their personal data confidentially and takes all data security, data protection, technical and organizational measures that result in the accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorized disclosure or unauthorized access to personal data. .

4.2. Concept definitions

Data subject: all natural persons whose personal data is recorded, managed and stored by the data controller.

Personal data: According to the WP29 working group, any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person ("data subject"), with which the data subject can be reached or identified, even a dynamic IP address can be personal data. Personal data includes: name, address, mother's name, place of birth, time, document identifiers, phone number, e-mail address, username, bank account details.

WP29 working group: (The data protection working group established on the basis of Article 29 of the Data Protection Directive, which works alongside the European Council and will coordinate (in its main authority function, the supervisory authorities of the member states).

Data controller: natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other body that manages personal data. A data controller is any person or body that determines the purposes and means of personal data management independently or together with others; if the purposes and means of data management are determined by EU or member state law, the data controller or the special aspects regarding the designation of the data controller may also be defined by EU or member state law.

Data processor: the person or body that processes personal data on behalf of the data controller.

Recipient: the natural or legal person, public authority, agency or any other body to whom the personal data is communicated, regardless of whether it is a third party.

4.3 During your visit, you may receive a control file (cookie) from our website, from external, independent auditing services that measure the number of visitors to our site. Accepting cookies is not mandatory (you can disable them in your browser), but some of our services can only be used by accepting them. The data controllers can provide detailed information on the management of the measurement data.

4.4 Management of cookies

Definition: An HTTP cookie (usually simply cookie, or cookie in English) is a packet of information that the server sends to the web browser, and then the browser sends back to the server for every request directed to the server. Cookies are created by the web server itself using the browser on the user's computer, where they are stored in a separate directory.

We use two types of cookies: temporary and permanent. Temporary cookies are temporary files that remain on the user's device until the end of the logged-in period or until the application (browser) is closed. Permanent cookies are present on the user's device for the time specified in their parameter or until they are manually deleted.

- Analytical Cookies - they are used to monitor where our visitors click on the website and record what content they are interested in.
- Community Cookies - they are important so that the social widgets on our pages can communicate with social networks (Facebook, Google and Twitter)
- Technical Cookies - essential for running the website.
- Functional Cookies - they are essential for our users to access the services they require.

By using cookies, we do not manage personal data; visitors have the option to delete cookies in the Tools/Settings menu of their browsers, usually under the settings of the Data Protection menu item.

4.5 Cookies related to Google services

When operating our website, we use the following Google services:

- Google Ads - Google Ads (formerly known as Google AdWords and Google AdWords Express) is an online advertising solution that businesses use to promote their products and services on Google Search, YouTube, and other sites on the Internet.
- Google Analytics This is a service that provides detailed statistics on the traffic of a website. The main goal is to be able to optimize advertisements based on the analysis of Google Analytics, i.e. from which page the visitors clicked, how long they stayed on the page, and according to their geographical location. Google Analytics mainly uses internal cookies to report on visitor activities on the websites of Google Analytics customers.

Users can block all cookies or delete individual cookies (more info here:

<https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/181881?hl=hu>). Google's privacy policy can be found here: <https://policies.google.com/>

4.6 The following personal data must be provided during registration:

- Surname and first name
- Email address

4.7 The data voluntarily provided by the Data Subject will be kept until the consent is revoked.

4.8. Only the administrators of Zoltán Joó E.V. and Tag21 Kft., which provides the web hosting, can access the data.

4.9. Based on the existing service contract, the data processor providing web hosting must permanently delete the data from its systems upon termination of the service contract.

4.10. Personal data will not be used for purposes other than those indicated. The data - with the exception of the data recorded in taxation and accounting legislation, which we store for the period specified by the legislation - is kept until the Data Subject's consent is revoked. Registration will be canceled upon request.

4.11. The Data Controller ensures the security of the data, and also takes all the technical measures and establishes the procedural rules that are necessary for the implementation of the data protection provisions. The User is responsible for the data provided by the User, their correctness, completeness and authenticity. The Data Controller is not responsible for damages resulting from erroneously entered data, even if it could recognize the erroneous nature of the data.

4.12. The Data Controller reserves the right to unilaterally modify this privacy statement without prior notice to users. In any case, the Data Controller will make the amendment available on its website 15 days prior to its entry into force, regardless of the one in effect. Archive information that has expired. Before and after the amendment enters into force, you have the right to withdraw data processed with consent. If you do not withdraw it, the effective amended data protection declaration shall be considered accepted.

All methods published in our data protection declaration apply to the procedure related to the management of the Data Subject's personal data. We do not make a separate statement regarding the handling of non-personal data.

4.13. Notification of a data protection incident: in view of the fact that data protection incidents can occur at any data controller, and in such cases the data controllers must respond within the time limit specified in the decree and specified in the regulations of the member states, it is important that as a Data Controller we do everything possible to prevent incidents. The Data Controller organized the tasks and responsibilities related to the handling of incidents in internal regulations (this also includes tasks related to reporting to the authorities and steps related to informing the affected parties).

At the same time, we ask our Users that if they feel any indication while using our website, which indicates that:

- they have lost control of their personal data or notice that their rights have been restricted
- experience identity theft or identity abuse
- damage to the confidential nature of data, it is assumed that this should be reported to the data protection officer of the Data Controller immediately so that we can take the necessary steps.

6.16. Data subject rights and general remedies

Right of access: the Data Subject has the right to receive feedback from the Data Controller as to whether his personal data is being processed, and if such data processing is underway, he is entitled to receive access to the personal data and the information listed in the regulation.

Right to rectification: the Data Subject has the right to have inaccurate personal data corrected without undue delay upon request by the Data Controller.

The right to erasure: the Data Subject has the right to request that the Data Controller delete the personal data concerning him without undue delay, and the Data Controller is obliged to delete the personal data concerning the Data Subject without undue delay under certain conditions.

The right to be forgotten: if the Data Controller has made personal data public and is obliged to delete it, taking into account the available technology and the costs of implementation, it will take reasonably expected steps - including technical measures - in order to inform the Data Controllers handling the data that the Data Subject requested from them the deletion of the links to the personal data in question or the copy or duplicate of this personal data.

The right to limit data processing: the Data Subject has the right to request that the Data Controller limit data processing if one of the following conditions is met:

- the Data Subject disputes the accuracy of the personal data, in which case the limitation applies to the period that allows the data controller to check the accuracy of the personal data;
- the data management is illegal and the Data Subject opposes the deletion of the data and instead requests the restriction of their use;
- the Data Controller no longer needs the personal data for the purpose of data management, but the Data Subject requires them to submit, enforce or defend legal claims;
- the Data Subject objected to data processing; in this case, the restriction applies to the period until it is determined whether the Data Controller's legitimate reasons take precedence over the data subject's legitimate reasons.

The right to data portability: the Data Subject has the right to receive the personal data relating to him/her provided to a Data Controller in a segmented, widely used, machine-readable format, and is also entitled to transmit this data to another Data Controller without hindering this the Data Controller to whom you made the personal data available.

The right to object: the data subject has the right to object to the processing of his personal data at any time for reasons related to his own situation,

The Data Subject's legal remedies: if, despite the Data Subject's objection, he is harmed in connection with the processing of his personal data, he may use the following legal remedies:

- You can request information about the management of your personal data, as well as request the correction of your personal data
- You can request the deletion of personal data regarding data processed on the legal basis of consent. You can withdraw your consent.
- Upon request, we provide information about the data managed by us or processed by the processor commissioned by us, the purpose, legal basis, and duration of the data management.

- The User's personal data will be deleted if its processing is illegal, if he requests it, if the purpose of data management has ceased, if it is incomplete or incorrect, and this state cannot be legally corrected - provided that the deletion is not excluded by law - or in accordance with the data storage law the specified deadline has expired, it was ordered by the court or the data protection commissioner.

The User may object to the processing of his personal data if

- the processing or transmission of personal data is necessary only to fulfill the legal obligation of the Data Controller or to enforce the legitimate interests of the Data Controller, data receiver or third party, unless the data processing is mandated by law

- personal data is used or forwarded for the purpose of direct business acquisition, public opinion polls or scientific research

- data management is in the public interest or is necessary for the execution of a task carried out in the context of the exercise of public authority delegated to the data controller.

The data controller examines the objection as soon as possible, but no later than one month after the submission of the application, makes a decision on its validity, and informs the applicant of his decision in writing. If the Data Controller determines that the protest of the data subject is well-founded, it will notify all those to whom the personal data affected by the protest was previously transmitted about the measures taken based on it. If the User does not agree with the decision made by the Data Controller, he may appeal to the court within 30 days of its notification. The court acts out of order. The court at the location of the Data Controller has jurisdiction over the lawsuit, but the lawsuit can also be initiated in the court at the location of the data subject's residence, at the option of the data subject.

Main data protection authority: z You can file a complaint with the National Data Protection and Freedom of Information Authority against possible violations of the Data Controller:
